

April 22, 2012
Rolling British Car Day
(Also Earth Day and National Jelly Bean Day)

By Katherine Partain
Photos by Kathleen Steel, Mike Partain, & Dan Jensen

Weather to help English cars run well greeted us on Sunday morning as we gathered in San Marcos for the 17th running of Rolling British Car Day. A gray sky with Oregon-air (drizzly) made it cool enough for even the most heat-sensitive auto. Many people were hardy & optimistic by putting their tops down as we were preparing to leave the parking lot, hoping for the sun to peek through and chase the clouds away.

How'd those get in there?

Along the way we met up with the Temecula group at the Hwy 76 - Hwy 15 intersection.

These few pictures during the run remind us of the fun driving the twisty paths we traversed in search of the country club.

Our club had a great turnout, with 37 members bringing their cats out for the day (Jorgene and I counted during lunch). The Pauma Valley Country Club put on a very nice welcome for us, letting us park on their grass and making available a BBQ lunch, complete with tables in the shade, and adult beverages. Of course people still had the option to bring their own picnic lunches and private beverage stock, which many did. A good time was had by all.

Lest you get the impression that there were only Jaguars at this event, below is the DeLorean contingent. BTW: John DeLorean used to own a home at the Pauma Valley Country Club. Also, one can see other English cars in the background of several of the other pictures.

Above is the President of the British Car Club Council, Craig McLaughlin with his wife Dannie (left). The picture below has Craig's Jagerrari on the end of the row. Their XK120 was not allowed to come out to play this trip.

*See
You In October
for British
Car
Day!*

